

«Technosvar» Technology Centre» is a modern enterprise, which specializes in designing and manufacturing of equipment for resistance, arc and diffusion welding.

We implement state-of-the art innovative solutions in combination with accumulated experience for creating unique welding technologies.

Our professionals not only help the customers through optimizing the technological process but also solve non-routine and challenging problems of the welding production. Such an approach towards the welding process brings our products to the modern level and allows the manufacturing highly ranked equipment.

The machines of «Technosvar» Technology Centre» are successfully being used in various industrial branches - construction, aircraft industry, rocket production, nuclear power industry, shipbuilding, engineering and etc. A broad industry orientation allows us to deliver our welding machines to many countries all over the world.

Our company will give you competent advice in selecting welding technology and equipment in accordance with your needs.